Area(s) of Expertise

Current areas of expertise involve leadership and management of core faculties, with a focus on mathematic departments. My strengths lie in staff management, empowerment and growing of leadership capacity. I am experienced in curriculum development, curriculum restructuring and staff pedagogical development. Experienced in specification changes, I possess skills to support faculties through curriculum transitions supporting rapid turnarounds, immediately impacting student outcomes. A key strength of mine is assessment development; I have experience implementing effective assessment and scheme of work systems across all school phases, streamlining assessment and feedback to rapidly address students' areas of weakness, leading to sustained strong outcomes. Establishment of internal faculty CPD is a key focus area for me, I have experience in establishing programmes to support teaching and learning, staff development and strong student behaviour engagement leading to strong student voice and A Level uptake.

Current Leadership Responsibilities

Current leadership responsibilities involve the direction and management of a leading secondary mathematics department. Departmental results are some of the strongest in the city of Manchester for attainment and progress, all key performance indicators are exemplar within school measures. Contextually the school serves some of the most deprived communities in the country; however through strong leadership, system management and direction we deliver exceptionally strong outcomes both academically and personally for staff and students alike.
